Visiting the Garage of HNR Member David Thorn

By Jerry Clemmons

News of former HNR Member David Thorn's passing brought back memories of the story of two friends in the old car hobby pooling efforts to build a garage on a budget. This article, published in September 2010, was the first in a series of garage story articles which appeared in Members' Parade.

Dave Thorn's Garage

You're in your mid thirties with a new house and family responsibilities. You love old cars, but there's no money to construct the garage you want to house and work on your antique automobiles. What do you do? Well, if you're Plant Engineer Dave Thorn with next door buddy Fred Caldwell, who has that same passion for old cars, you pool efforts and build that garage. And this is what they did. That was thirty years ago. It took no less than four years and a grand total of only sixty five hundred dollars to construct Dave's 3,000 square foot garage.

Where did Dave get the lumber to build his garage? He cut it from the land on which the garage sits. He cleared the lot, had the logs milled, then stacked and dried the lumber before construction began. Roof trusses came from a local supplier who'd ordered the wrong size for another job. Dave struck a deal on the bargain trusses and built his garage to fit their dimensions.

With permission from his boss to go in early at work each day, Dave created a schedule that would give him more afternoon daylight hours to get work done on his garage. He worked at his job in a Chemical plant in Mt. Holly, North Carolina from 6AM until 3:30. By 4PM each day, he could be home swinging a hammer. Dave didn't waste precious time going in the house to change clothes. He went straight to the garage.

He built the walls on the floor. With each wall complete, Dave called Fred over to help stand it up. Fred and Dave's Wives, Vicki and Rita also did their part in this project. They helped in many ways, not the least of which was helping Dave hold the sheetrock up while Fred screwed it to the studs.

Dave's garage, like his old car projects, became a work in progress over the years, seeing additions and modifications.

Dave Thorn spent many hours of enjoyment restoring and maintaining his old cars in the garage built with determination, friendship and very little funds.

Framework completed with lumber cut from Dave's property

The Spirit of Wilkes

Why This, and Why Now?

In the foothills of North Carolina, where the air is clean, the breeze is cool, and the views stretch for miles, sits a place that refuses to be forgotten. North Wilkesboro Speedway is more than just cracked concrete and racing history. It's a symbol of grit, revival, and what's possible when a community decides something is worth saving.

When we first began talking about creating a third show, there were plenty of practical reasons not to. Our collective plates are full. Resources on all sides are tight. Logistics? Complicated. But something kept tugging at us: the idea that maybe, just maybe, this was about more than another event. Maybe this was about helping breathe life back into something sacred, not just a speedway, but a spirit, a legacy, and maybe even a car club.

Before NASCAR became a household name, before the bright lights and million-dollar TV deals, racing was grassroots. It was farmers and moonshiners. OK, probably maybe mostly moonshiners. It was grease under your nails and family in the stands. North Wilkesboro Speedway held its first race in 1947, two years before NASCAR even existed. Some of the sport's most iconic figures cut their teeth right here. And when NASCAR was officially born, it was in a hotel room just down the road.

But like many historic venues, time and progress took their toll. The track fell silent in 1996, locked in a long sleep that would last more than two decades. And, as with any old car left sitting too long, nature was doing her work. She was slowly ripping the structures apart at the seams. The air itself seems to conspire against anything man-made, and the old speedway was no exception.

I wasn't much of a race fan growing up, but as a student at Appalachian State, I watched that old track slowly get swallowed back into the hills. Even through the overgrowth along Highway 421, you couldn't help but acknowledge the once proud, mighty giant, standing tall, a relic of a bygone era.

On a personal note, the day after I proposed to Karen, we were driving back up the mountain toward Boone. We may have been going a tad over the speed limit as we passed the old speedway. Apparently, a North Carolina Highway Patrolman favored that stretch of road. That morning, we earned ourselves a financial reminder that racing should probably stay off 421. It's a story that still comes up whenever we travel that way.

In 2005, a group of passionate locals launched the Save the Speedway campaign. They believed there was still life left in this old track. In 2019, Dale Earnhardt Jr.

brought significant attention to the cause, calling on volunteers to help clear brush so the track could be scanned for iRacing. What started as a digital preservation effort turned into something much bigger, because once the weeds were cleared, it became obvious the track had held up better than anyone expected.

That resurrection lit a fire. Fans, racers, and businesses began asking: What if this old place still has something to offer? What if the best days aren't behind it?

Speedway Motorsports answered with a resounding yes, investing millions to restore the facility, not just to remember the past, but to build something new. What stands today is a fully renovated facility that honestly looks decades old. It can only be described as a restomod. Every space, repaired and infrastructure upgraded. Block walls repainted and then white washed to give them an aged appearance. New signs designed and constructed with rustic and aged façade. Even the smallest detail was addressed. It's an impressive site to behold.

Speedway Motorsports made a commitment to the community that North Wilkesboro Speedway would once again be a destination. Not just for racing, but for concerts, car shows, and festivals. So, when they looked for a partner to help bring that vision to life, where better to turn than the team behind Charlotte AutoFair?

Enter Hornets Nest.

We began talking months ago about what this event could be. The rich history and legacy shared by AutoFair, Hornets Nest, and Speedway Motorsports made the decision easy. The fit was perfect.

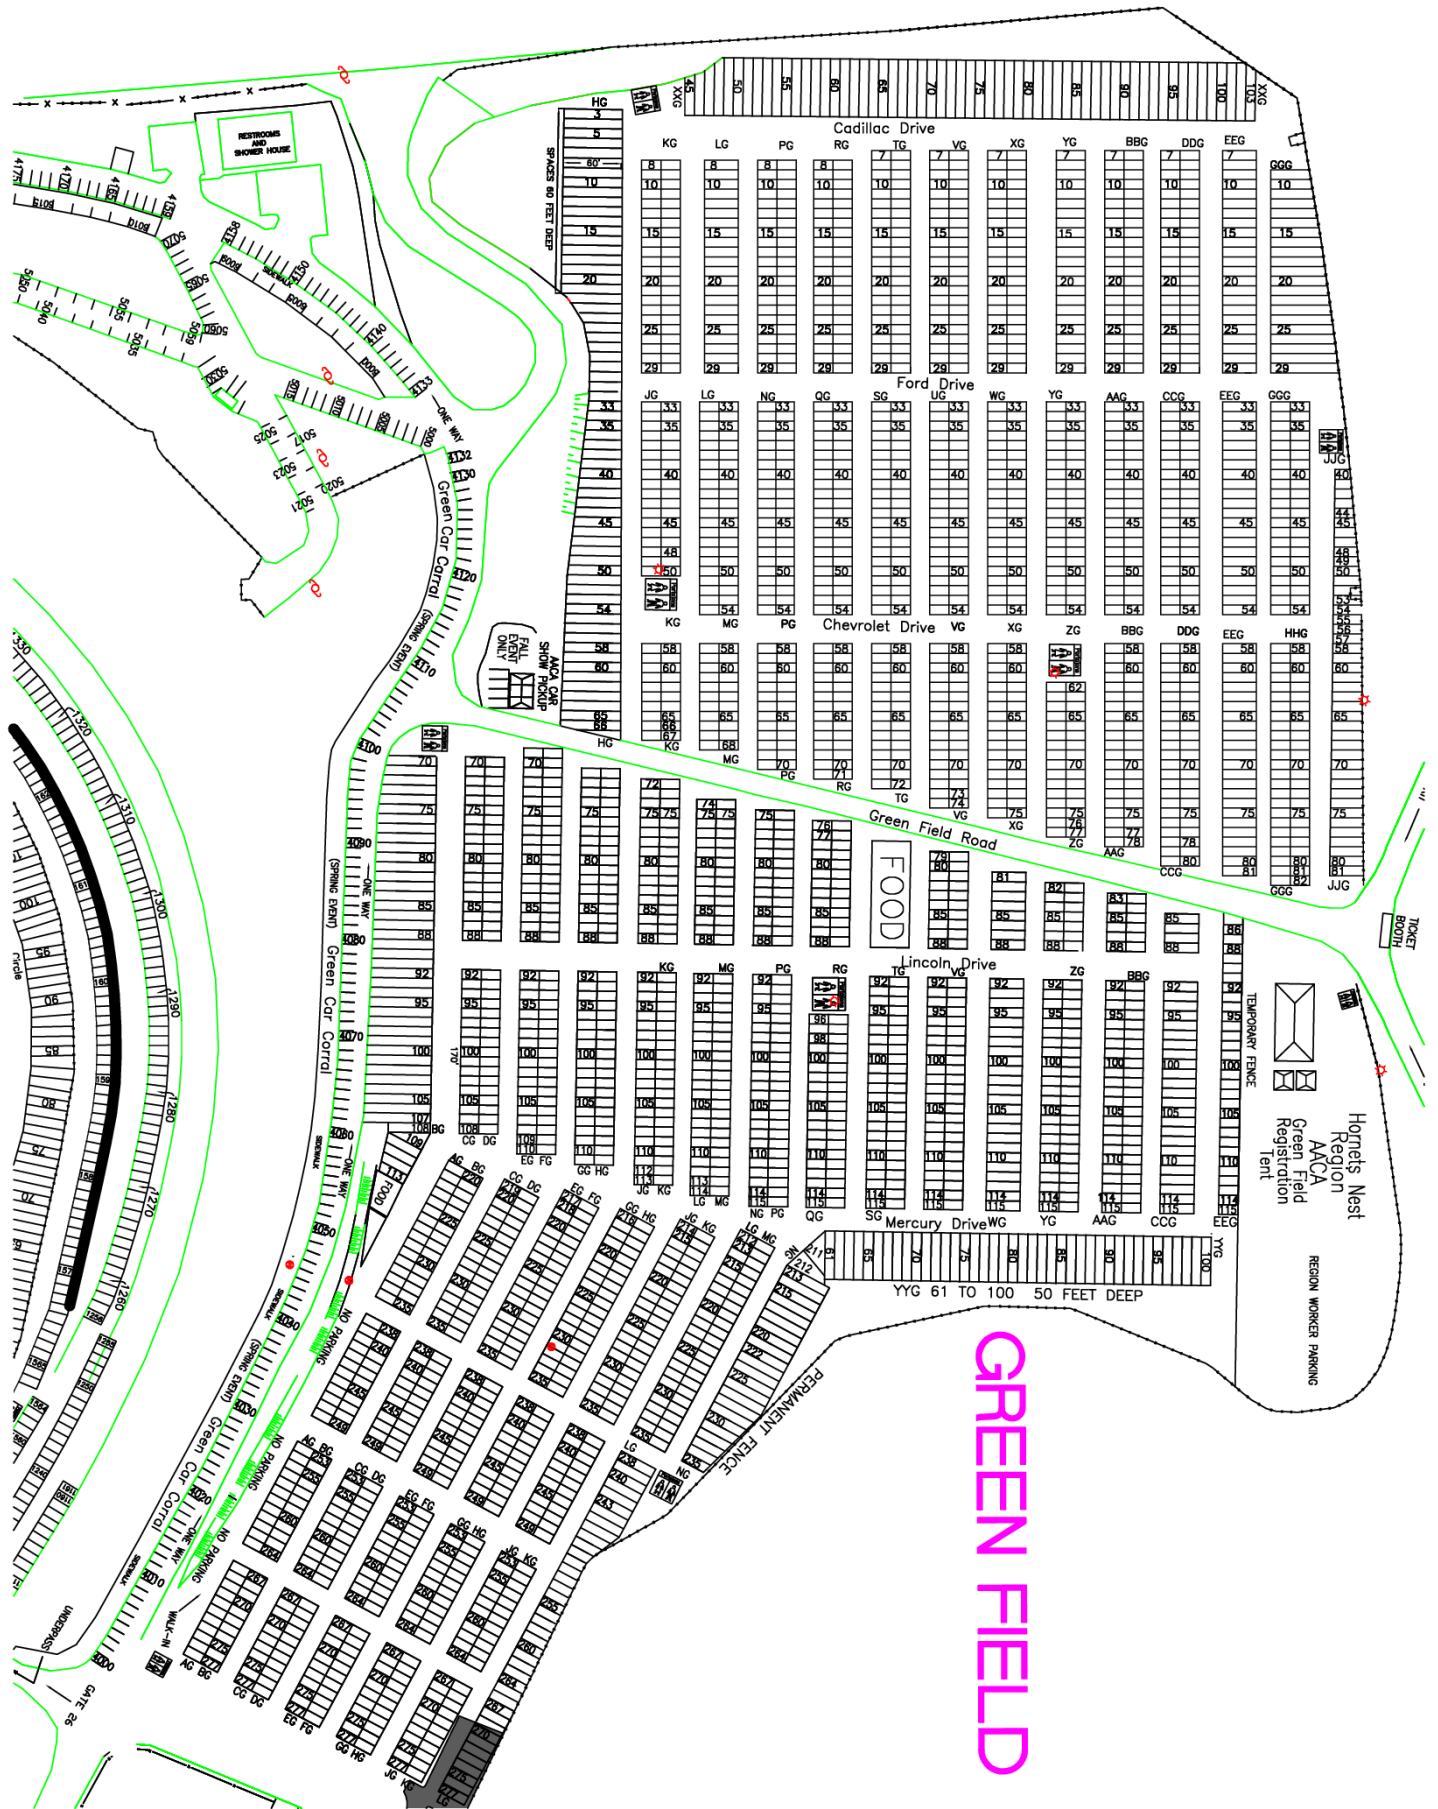

Spirit of Wilkes is our way of honoring that story, and our own. It's about creating a gathering place for people who love cars, history, collectibles, and community. It's about blending the raw authenticity of a vintage speedway with the fun and flair of a modern collector's event. It's an auto show, a collector's market, a gathering of kindred spirits, and a tip of the cap to those who never gave up on this place... or this club.

Vendors will line pit road and the surrounding grounds with antiques, automobilia, rare finds, and vintage treasures. Car owners will park their rides in the infield in a cruise-in style car show. And the winners of each class? They'll be lifted—literally—to the iconic Winners Circle atop the media building for trophy presentations and photographs. A celebration in a place built for champions. And as a special treat: classic stock cars will be on display on the track, and a few times a day, they'll make exhibition laps around the oval. I can't wait to see that.

Make no mistake, Spirit of Wilkes isn't meant to replace anything. It's a new addition. A fresh chapter. Our third offering, alongside Charlotte AutoFair in the spring and the Hornets Nest Auto Fest in the fall. It's a chance to bring something special to a new part of the state, and to support the ongoing revival of a landmark that deserves to shine. We're not just putting on another show. We're helping write the next page in a story that means a lot to a lot of people. And I hope you're as excited to be part of it as we are.

Tom Helms Remembrance

In the Hornets Nest Region of the AACA there were a couple of things you could pretty well count on. One was Tom Helms would be present and accounted for at the Red, White & Blue Car Show. The other was his presence on Pre Charlotte AutoFair Staking Day.

Not known to shirk an opportunity to do his part in his favorite Club's preparation for Charlotte AutoFair, Tom Helms has mattock in hand as he works to gouge out a stubborn, hiding staking disc.

In the above right is a shot of Tom Helms, all decked out in a Hornets Nest Region Shirt, beside his super nice 1987 Oldsmobile Cutlass during 2024 Red ,White and Blue.

A Hornets Nest Member through and through, we will miss Tom.

God Speed Tom Helms

Hulon McCraw on Tour Following BRCC Show

I was running on a very short leash following the Blue Ridge Community College Car Show since I was due in Strasburg, PA Sunday morning June 1st. I was attending the Vintage Tour hosted by the Buzzards Breath Touring Region. Arriving at 1:30 pm just in time for the opening banquet. Not having a vehicle old enough to register for the event, I became a passenger, riding in a different vehicle each day. Imagine this, riding in a Stearns Knight A Model back seat, Model A Rumble seat, Marmon, and Lincoln all 1931 or older. Visiting Historic sites, private collections, Museums, President Buchanan's home, Robert Stevens birthplace, learning how Potato Chips are made, how Amish buggies are manufactured, serviced and restored, riding on the PA Steam Engine train, life cannot be any better.

AACA Members who have never done a National Tour, you are missing a great adventure offered by our club. Don't put it off any longer!

See you on the road soon. Hulon McCraw

HNR Members who have attended the AACA Show at the North Carolina Transportation Museum in Salisbury are most likely familiar the 1950 Willis Overland Jeep featured here. Dan brings his Willis to the North Carolina Region Show at the Transportation Museum annually. Dan's vehicle was also present at the West Virginia AACA Nationals where Ken Gilmore took some detailed photos.

Some history on these vehicles...In the late forties, Willis Overland introduced what is arguably the first all steel SUV to the American public as a post War companion to its military Jeep. The drivetrain remained little changed from 1946 to the introduction of the Jeep Waggoner in 1963.

This 1950 model is powered by a four cylinder 134 cubic inch "Hurricane" engine. An offshoot of the "Go Devil" flat head engine used in the early military Jeeps, this 72 horsepower engine is the unusual "F" head configuration with intake valves located in the head and exhaust valves location in the engine block. The transmission has three forward gears and an electrically actuated overdrive.

We have included here a little background information on this vehicle and its historical travels across our great and wonderful United States of America.

This 1950 Jeep Station Wagon was purchased new in 1950 by a sign painter in Biloxi, Mississippi for $1885.00

The vehicle eventually made its way to Michigan where the current owner, Dan Fuccella, purchased it in 1977 and spent the subsequent 2.5 years restoring it. That restoration was also refreshed in 2000.

Since the initial restoration, the vehicle has been driven over 100,000 miles on secondary roads throughout 37 States in the United States of America. It has been driven to 18 National Parks and a trek to Biloxi, Mississippi for a reunion with the Jeep's original owner in 2003.

Major trips include:

900 mile trek to Washington, PA with stops at Luray Caverns VA and Cumberland, MD. in Summer 2003.

A one week 2450 mile trip in 2004 that included stop at Biloxi, Mississippi to visit the original owner.

Eight week 10,000 mile trek in Fall 2013 that included a visit to 12 Western National Parks

Four week 3500 mile trek in 2014 to Acadia National Park in Maine. This trip included several stops along the Atlantic Coast.

Three week 2800 mile trek to Florida Keys in 2015 with stops at Everglades and Smoky Mountain National Parks.

Two week 2050 mile trek to Ann Arbor, Michigan with stops in West Virginia, Ohio and Western, North Carolina in the fall of 2017

Cruising speed on these trips around the United States has averaged around 55 mile per hour. Fuel mileage averages 18 MPG at that speed. Typical distance traveled each day on these trips has been 225 miles.
